Camp Fire celebrates 94 years!

Club members and youth from our after-school programs, leaders, AmeriCorps members, board members and staff celebrated Camp Fire USA's 94th birthday on Saturday, March 27 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church. This year's celebration was an Action Bead Fair and Art Competition.

The day began with key note speaker Wenda Fore, a long-time Camp Fire leader, who opened with an interactive history of beads and their significance in Camp Fire. Afterwards, kids "walked" Camp Fire's Five Trails by taking part in activities specifically tied to each trail, such as friendship bracelets, science experiments, birdfeeders, family trees and games for the whole group.

"It was a great day," according to Club Coordinator Ursula Williams. "The kids enjoyed the mix of activities and and it was great to see kids engaged, learning, and having fun," Ursula continues. Kids from both programs found familiar faces in the crowd because of the trip to the Wittenbach AgriCenter some of the Club members and after-school kids took earlier in the program year. In fact, at one point, some of Lowell's Discovery Club members and students from Jefferson Elementary led the group in songs that they learned at the Wittenbach Center. "I think that the shared experience and reconnecting today really helped to bring the group closer together," said Ursula.

During the day, AmeriCorps members judged submissions for Camp Fire's National Art Competition. The medium, announced in October, was paint and meant that leaders have been working with their Clubs since then to meet competition criteria, including: discussing the medium, using it, and maybe visiting an art studio. Perhaps the most important role for leaders was to help foster creativity.

"I just love the Art Competition! The creativity was fantastic," according to Club Coordinator Ursula Williams.

Camp Fire USA West Michigan Council offers children and youth a variety of programs that foster self-esteem, healthy lifestyles, character development, leadership skills and social responsibility. Along with our Club program, Camp Fire coordinates after-school and summer programs in the Camelot Woods housing community and in the neighborhoods around Burton Elementary & Middle Schools, C.A. Frost, Coit, Eastern, Henry Paideia, and Jefferson Elementary schools. Camp Fire also offers life skills courses in schools, child care centers and other settings.

From the Executive Director

Dear Friends,

Thank you to all of you who support Camp Fire USA's mission to "build caring confident youth and future leaders." Board members, donors, club leaders or co-leaders, AmeriCorps members, after-school and summer program volunteers, and event planning committee members, we would not be able to make a difference in the lives of children and youth without you.

We are busy wrapping-up this year's After-school and Club programs and compiling survey data to determine how well our programs have helped youth accumulate developmental assets. This data serves as our report card telling us if our programs are working, if they are helping youth develop 13 specific assets, which can influence choices young people make and help them become caring, responsible youth. We will report the results of the surveys to you in our summer issue of Signals.

Council Fires will be held in Battle Creek, Lowell and at St. Patrick's Catholic Church in Ada. At these events the Club members, leaders and Club volunteers will be recognized for their accomplishments over the past year. The members will receive emblems and beads they have earned and some will fly-up to the next Club level.

This year's Summer Day Camp planning is right on schedule. We are raising funds for the eight-week program – one week longer than last year's program – and expect to give 420 youth a safe, fun and learning environment during summer.

Again, thank you for all you do to keep Camp Fire strong. Your time, talents, and financial support are critical as we pursue our mission of "building caring, confident youth and future leaders."

Sincerely,

Gayle Orange

Interim Executive Director

Summer Day Camp 2004

Summer is almost here and Camp Fire is busy preparing for Summer Day Camp 2004. This year 5 – 14 year olds can spend eight weeks at Camp Fire beginning Monday, June 14 and ending on August 6. The program is FREE and will operate Monday – Friday from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at five locations in Grand Rapids (see below).

Day campers will spend their summer making friends and having fun in a safe, structured environment. Each day, boys and girls can participate in games, activities, and service learning projects with friends and caring adults. And this year, the program will feature Field Trip Fridays, with kids looking forward to spending their Fridays learning and exploring around town.

While the kids are having fun, they also learn to appreciate diversity, resolve conflicts peacefully, and to walk away from negative situations and harmful activities – crucial skills they need to grow into caring, confident youth and future leaders. For families, Summer Day Camp means they can go to work knowing that their children are safe in a structured environment where disguised learning takes place daily.

This year's Day Camp is partially funded by grants from the Sebastian Foundation and the City of Grand Rapids. Thank you for helping to give an estimated 420 children and youth the opportunity to have a fun, safe summer.

If you would like more information about Summer Day Camp, please call the Council at 949 2500.

Youth from CA Frost will attend Camp Fire's Coit program site, while youth from Henry Paideia will attend the program at Jefferson. The CA Frost and Henry site coordinators will continue to work with the youth at the host site.

"The leaders and Club members outdid themselves this year." On display were paintings, painted bird houses, flower pots, floorcloths, t-shirts, and tote bags.

Thank you Wenda for sharing her knowledge of Camp Fire and thank you Club leaders for all you did to prepare for the Art Competition and for leading activities. It was also great to see board members Sally Hipp and Jill May helping celebrate Camp Fire. As for the AmeriCorps members, "I can't imagine having done it without them," says a thankful Ursula.

Self-Reliance at a glance

So far this program year, 139 elementary students have received hands-on life-skills training using Camp Fire's Self-Reliance curriculum. The three age-appropriate curriculums are I'm Safe and Sure!, I Can Do It! and I'm Peer Proof! And they were delivered to Kindergarten through 6th grade students in late 2003. There are currently 293 K-6th graders enrolled in this year's second session.

Pre-Kindergarten – 1st grade I'm Safe & Sure! survey results:

- 81.8% learned why it is important to let their parents know where they are playing
- 100% learned how to say, "No thanks" to their friends when asked to do something they know is wrong
- 90.9% learned that it is better to talk to someone they're mad at and settle the problem than it is to hit him/her

2nd – 3rd grade I Can Do It! survey results:

- 91.4% learned what foods make good snacks
- 82.9% know the difference between a weather watch and a warning
- 94.3% learned important rules that will help them be a safe bike rider

4th – 6th grade I'm Peer Proof! survey results:

- 91.7% learned what to say to someone who is teasing them
- 100% learned how to cool down their anger
- 100% learned how to problem-solve conflicts

Connecting Youth:

Lowell Club starts a penpal program

The Rising Sun Discovery Club in Lowell wanted to start a pen pal program. The five member Club wanted to write to another Discovery Club somewhere in the country and so they put out feelers last fall. In February, the Lightning Bees, Alicia Boughton's Discovery Club in Fort Worth, Texas, answered the call by writing to Club leader Kathy Gingerich and asking if these two Clubs could become pen pals.

Since then, the Clubs have exchanged letters and the Rising Sun Club has put together a short video to introduce its members to the Lightning Bees. The Bees will be filming their own video at their Spring camping trip.

Says Rising Sun's leader Kathy Gingerich, "It is so great that the kids have the opportunity to get to know Club members from a different part of the country. And really, Fort Worth is quite different in climate, word phrases, and activities." Club members in Lowell are having fun with the letters from their Southwest counterparts. "They get a kick out of seeing y'all in the letters," continues Kathy. "What do y'all do in Michigan? Of course, each group thinks the other is the one with the accent, which makes it fun to watch."

When asked what the next steps are, Kathy says she would really like for the Clubs to meet at the 2005 Congress. In the meantime, the Rising Sun and Lightning Bees will continue to exchange letters. Have fun y'all!

Spring Break in the Rainforest

Camp Fire held its second annual Spring Break program April 5 – 8 in the Community Room at Camelot Woods Apartments. The four-day program was open from 10:00 a.m. – 3 p.m. and gave 20 kids a much needed place to go during the break from school.

"This is a group of kids whose parents are working all week," said Adam McVicker, one of Camp

Fire's 2003-04 AmeriCorps members and a core member of the program's planning committee. "We wanted the kids to have a chance to have fun during their Spring Break, like so many other kids do." Adam and Corps members Lydia Boonstra, Laura Deneau, John Dowd, Shanette Haynes, Katie Miller, Jeremy Smith, Scott Horton, and Anne Trelfa worked together to design the program. During Spring Break, the planning committee was joined by other members and volunteers, which increased the adult:child ratio and gave children lots of one-on-one time with caring adults.

The week's activities included baking bread, making puppets, straw painting, a nature scavenger hunt and jungle animal games. Kids also made bookmarks and kept a daily journal, writing about topics from nature to where they will be in thirty years. "This group really likes reading," remarked Adam, "so we had reading time after lunch every day."

When asked what she would be doing if she were not at Camp Fire, Taisheena Phillips, a fourth grader at Camelot Woods remarked, "...[this week] would be so boring. I'd probably be with a babysitter." Taisheena really liked the games and especially the balloon tower contest they had. Each team had to find a way to make the highest freestanding tower of balloons. "Miss Katie's team won," she reported.

Thank you AmeriCorps members for your leadership on this project and for making a difference for kids!

After-School Programs Help Fight Hunger

The youth attending Camp Fire USA's eight after-school programs are helping to fight hunger by participating in Youth Rally for Hunger 2004. The Youth Rally, sponsored by God's Kitchen, is designed to encourage young people to collect non-perishable food items to help restock the pantry at God's Kitchen.

At each program site, youth are being asked to set a goal for the number of cans and boxes they will collect from friends and family, neighbors, churches and even teachers and school administrators. On Friday, May 7, kids from all eight program sites will board a bus to God's Kitchen to deliver their food, tour the facility to learn how the program operates and what happens to the food once it arrives. Afterwards, boys and girls will celebrate their accomplishments with a taco dinner prepared by God's Kitchen as part of the Youth Rally's Food Drop Off Day.

"I think the kids are excited about this project," says Carolyn Guyton, Neighborhood Program Coordinator for Camp Fire. "It is so important for kids to give back to their community," continues Mrs. Guyton. "It instills in them a sense of pride and accomplishment and it is especially rewarding for kids to see that they can make a difference regardless of their personal circumstances." Over 73% of youth in Camp Fire's After-school programs live in families earning less than $25,000 annually, and 57% of families earn less than $15,000 annually.

Between 250-300 Camp Fire kids from Burton Elementary, Burton Middle School, CA Frost School, Coit, Eastern, Henry, and Jefferson Elementary Schools, and from Camelot Woods Apartments are expected to attend the Youth Rally's Food Drop Off Day on Friday, May 7. Buses are scheduled to arrive at God's Kitchen at 4:30 p.m., departing at 5:30 p.m.

Summer Dreams - You can help!

Summertime is almost here and Camp Fire is raising funds for its annual inner-city Summer Day Camp. This year, we hope to give 420 children and youth eight weeks of friendship, learning, and fun in five neighborhoods in Grand Rapids.

The 2004 program will cost $250 per camper and we have been working hard to raise these funds through grants and other funding sources. But with your help, we know we can do it!

Through the Detroit Free Press's Summer Dreams Campaign, Camp Fire has an opportunity to DOUBLE each gift designated to our organization and submitted to the Summer Dreams Campaign from May 1 – August 1. Matching funds come from the Skillman Foundation and must be used to support summer programs that provide safe, engaging, and positive opportunities for youth, like Camp Fire's Summer Day Camp.

If you haven't made a gift to Camp Fire this year – or would like to make an additional gift - this is a great way for your gift to go twice as far in helping us build caring, confident youth and future leaders. To participate, use the coupon printed here, fill-out your information and enclose it in an envelope with a check made payable to CHILDREN FIRST. Then mail the coupon and check to:

Children First
PO Box 64702
Detroit, MI 48264

Every two weeks, Camp Fire will receive a check from the Summer Dreams Campaign that includes donations designated to us AND matching funds from the Skillman Foundation, for as long as those funds last.

If you do send a gift, be sure to let us know! Camp Fire will not receive a list of Summer Dreams donors, but we do want to thank you. So, please tell us your name and gift amount so we can send you a well-deserved "thank you." Send a note, call us at 949-2500 x 30, or send an e-mail to giving@campfireusawmc.org.
